A $33,000 TAPESTRY "FIND" o

Treasure Discovered at Langford Hill, a Jacobean House Near Bude, Cornwall, England.

Two pieces of ancient tapestry which were recently discovered at Langford O Hill, a Jacobean house near Bude, Cornwall, have been sold for $33,000 at Messrs. Puttick and Simpson's The purchaser was Capt. H.

The principal piece, measuring 13 tury arras tapestry, originally belong. with the Kramer family. ing to Cardinal Wolsey and representing the seven deadly sins. Three of the panels are now hanging at Hampton court palace. The second piece brother, H. M. Starr and family, of tapestry was part of a frieze, 14 feet by 2 feet 4 inches, originally made for

The tapestry was found packed away in a box at Langford Hill. The house belongs to two maiden ladies, who were unaware that their roof was harboring such treasures. It was stated ton Monday to visit her father who is in the saleroom that some years ago quite sick, the panel, packed in a box and described at a curpet, was sold at auction for $7.50.—London Chronicle.

OXFORD STICKS TO GREEK 23nd of this month.

Victory for Hellenists When Congregation and Not Convocation Declines to Make Language Optional.

Humanity is not dead after all. Oxford sticks to Greek. It is a great vicgregation and not convocation which two weeks. clined to make Greek optional for all. No one can say that the country parsons did it, or that expert opinion, of the death of his grandmother at all those who are actively concerned in running the university, were in faoutside reaction brought up for the went up Saturday morning to be in purpose. Greek must have equal rights with Latin. The ordinary undergraduate should be made to know returned home Sunday night, something of both and if he is to be allowed to do with only one, Greek must have as good a chance of being taken as Latin. This, as Prof. Gilbert. Murray says, will save Greek at the X public schools. For the specialist, the X mathematical or science man, we have X always been willing to let him off Greek; though in our judgment it will generally be better for him if he is not let off .- Saturday Review.

Mr. Silas Pikweed steps into the long corridor of the Upthere building. He gazes at the row of elevator gates, squinting with some amazement at their iron bars. He glances apprehensively at the elevator starter, who, with star on breast and brass buttons on his uniform, is an imposing sight.

here?" "Since last May, Want to see him?" "No, no, I guess not."

And Silas almost tiptoes back to the street, where he stops and sighs and murmurs to himself:

"Poor Jim! His pa told me the number of the street where I could find him, but I bet his pa doesn't know about it. I ain't got the heart to let Jim see me while he is in disgrace this way. I'll jest go back home place."-Judge.

All Others Imitations.

"The English word 'flirt,' both as verb and noun, has been adopted by the German speaking people of this city," says a Vienna letter, "but it is usually pronounced 'fleert.' A young woman, Kamilla Palffy, delivered a lecture a few days ago in the hall of W. the Merchants' association on 'Flirt and Love.' The lecture was illustrated with stereopticon views. The evolution of the firt was shown from the where he will go to tarming. antique, rural, 'old-fashioned' to the 'perfect American.' There was some discussion among the Americans who from a trip to Texas. heard the talk as to whether giving our country first place was a compli ment or a 'knock,' and no one seemed to know just which side to take. One demure American girl said: 'The art, like the word, is American-all others are imitations,' and no one contradict-
